This coin commemorates the conquest by Mark Antony over the Armenians in 34 BC.
Obverse: Bust of Mark Antony. The Armenian crown behind Antony represents his victorious Roman army.
Reverse: Bust of Cleopatra. The prow beneath Cleopatra stands for the mighty Egyptian fleet.

Denarius of Mark Antony & Cleopatra

As pharaoh, she conspired with Caesar that tightened Cleopatra followed Caesar's assassination in 44 BC.

Mark Antony was in dispute with Caesar's adopted son Octavian over the succession to the Roman leadership. In 41 BC he began both a political and romantic alliance with Cleopatra. They subsequently had three children.

Cleopatra VII was born in 69 BC - 68 BC and was the last pharaoh of Ancient Egypt. When her father Ptolemy XIII died, she married her brother Ptolemy XIV and eventually became co-ruler with Julius Caesar. After his death, she married Octavian and became the last pharaoh of Egypt.

The Latin inscription on the reverse translates to 'I reign under the auspices of Christ', referring to Charles's belief that he was answerable only to God.
Obverse: Bust of Charles I with crown and wearing armour.
Reverse: Oval garrisoned shield with royal coat of arms.

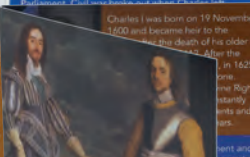

There was a century old rivalry between Parliament and the monarchy. Parliament disliked Charles's autocratic rule and this reached a head in 1642 when the King unsuccessfully attempted to arrest five Members of Parliament. Civil war broke out when Charles left London and raised the Royal Standard at Nottingham.
 Charles I was born on 19 November 1600 and became heir to the throne after the death of his older brother Henry in 1612. After the death of his father, James I, in 1625 Charles ascended to the throne. Charles believed in the Divine Right of Kings. As a result he constantly quarrelled with his parliaments and ruled without one for 11 years.

In order to increase the output of gold coinage, branches of the Royal Mint were set up in Australia.

Obverse: Young Head of Queen Victoria
Reverse: Crowned Shield

Victoria was born on 24 May 1819 and succeeded to the throne at the age of 18. In 1840 Victoria married Prince Albert with whom she enjoyed 20 years of marriage. Upon Albert's death she withdrew from public life and became a recluse.

During Victoria's reign, the world's first and most powerful empire was created. To celebrate, the Great Exhibition of 1851 was held in London's Crystal Palace. From 1st May 1851 to 15th October 1851, more than six million people visited the exhibition.

The 'Old Head' was introduced to gold and silver coinage in 1893 and to bronze coinage in 1895.
